

The slide features a dark blue background with decorative geometric patterns on the left and right edges. These patterns consist of overlapping, colorful shapes in shades of yellow, magenta, cyan, and grey, arranged in a way that suggests a staircase or a series of steps. The shapes are outlined in a light blue color.

By: Cayman Sutton

Building A House- a Writing Metaphor

Attributes of Building A House construction

establishment property
premissis
house
framework
model

make
form
throw-together
making originate
creation
planning

invention
foundation

The Writing Process is....

I don't write about building houses much, nor the writing process, but they are similar. It is all what you want. Starting off, an idea of your new house springs into mind, down on blue print and thought about more than 1,000 times. Reversed, chnged, and thought about for a while, the building begins. First, wood is put up, showing what the house will be like. Sometimes houses don't always go as planned, but there is always a way to fix it. Piece by piece, the house comes together. Brick, grass, stone, all slowly beginning to be finished, the house-it's your own-a masterpiece! Now anyone can view your creation. Most people find something wrong with the house, wanting it to be perfect, but it's not. With the finished product, I find my creative establishment-a true original from my own heart. Though my process is finished, I hope for more to come.